Note the repetitious use of the word "accomplish," the dictionary definition of which is to "bring an issue to full success." Use of that word and the phrase "the war was assured" constitute a boast of the secretary of state crediting to the Wilson administration the "accomplishment" by news propaganda of having brought the "issue to full success," the "issue" being its effort to drive the country to war.

THE FIRST NINE paragraphs of the hitoric press association dispatch read:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 - The Associated Press is enabled to reveal that Germany is planning unrestricted submarine warfare and, counting its consequences, proposed an alliance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States if this country should not remain neutral.

These instructions were transmitted to Von Eckhardt through Count Von Bernstorff, former German ambassador here, now on his way home to Germany under a safe conduct obtained from his enemies by the country against

Recommended For State Offices Governor

C. William O'Neill (R) Michael V. DiSalle (D) Lieut. Governor

John Taylor (D) Wm. Cody Kelly (R) Attorney General

Paul F. Ward (D) William Saxbe (R) There are no contests on either ticket for secretary of state or for auditor of state. Incumbent Roger W. Tracy is unopposed on the Republican ticket for treasurer but there is a contest on the Democratic ticket and we recommend John W. Donahey.

Bill O'Neill has what it takes to be a good governor of Ohio. Young, vigorous, capable and dedicated to good government, he measures up to it in every way. He is in his third term as attorney general and no man in our recollection has done a better job.

It is our judgement that Mike DiSalle deserves Democratic approval by reason of his administrative experience as a former mayor of Toledo and head of the Office of Price Stabilization under President Truman.

William Cody Kelly is a second-term member of the City Council in Cincinnati and a leading exponent of economy in government. In the latter qualification he is well matched by our Democratic selection, John Taylor of Bill Saxbe of Mechanicsburg served four terms in the Ohio House of Representatives, the last term as speaker. He made a highly creditable, even though unseccessful race, for United States senator two years ago. In our estimation another top candidate for attorney general on the Republican ticket is Chalmers P. Wylie, city attorney of Columbus. Elected to that post at age 32, he is now 35 and a man of consequence in the future of Ohio politics. The same may be said for Paul Ward, our choice for attorney general on the Demoeratic ticket. Coming from Steubenville, he is now a Columbus lawyer, former secretary of the state industrial commission and twice before, in 1952 and 1954, his party's nominee for attorney general.

Say It Isn't So!

The report that U. C. Felty, director of Ohio's highway safety department, is toying with the idea of making several million of us who are charter members of the Ohio Licensed Drivers Club take examinations when he gets around to it is terrifying news.

Hundreds of thousands of us who have coached new drivers and suffered with them through that curious parking test which is run off between a pair of sticks frankly doubt if we scould pass it. Our pride as old hands at the game woud keep us from paying for special coaching-the kind that prepares the new driver to pass the test, with special stress on parking between a pair of sticks.

Frankly, that is the sticking point. An old Ohio driver could bone up enough to know that an eight-sided sign on which nothing was visible would say "Stop" if it could speak. He could master the mechanical operation of a car easier than it could be done when he learned to drive in the dear, dead days of friction clutches and a couple varieties of gearshifts. But that parking test between sticks would throw him into a tizzy.

If Director Felty ever gets around to us charter members of the OLDC, it will be the roughest thing that has happened since the feds made farmers file income tax reports.

Protecting The Source

The recurrent theme in the third National Conference of Solicitations in Cleveland recently was the danger of over-solicitation.

It is the besetting worry of all the good people in this country who raise money for all its good causes. They do not want to kill or even come close to killing the goose that lays the golden eggs for voluntary efforts in the fields of welfare, health and education.

But it is curious that so little is said by those who solicit contributions about self-determination among those who make contributions. Here is where the decision to save the golden goose of volunteer giving ultimately will have to look for security. Solicitors are competitive with one another in a very real sense. Barring the possibility of federal control, which seems too remote to take into consideration, voluntary giving ultimately will have to be made secure by contributors.

They will protect themselves as the sources of the wherewithal for good works by restricting the demands that can be made on them to those of proved value.

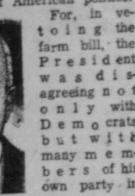

This is essentially the United Fund idea in this generation, just as it was the Community Chest idea in a previous generation. It behooves those who solicit to understand why those who contribute do not intend to be oversolicited.

The Pooch and the Plaque

Lassie, famed movie and TV star, received a Peabody TV Award in person at a dinner, with other notables the other day, and we functed what the pooch might have said if asked to respond:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this sort of thing may be all right for humans, but for dogs, you can have it. I can't say I am extra proud to be here. I would rather be in scores of other places. You can take these long-winded coremonials; give me an open field with a boy, or a spot beside him as he fishes in a brook. Human beings have a curious passion for flattering oratory; give me the whistle of a kid on a spring day, the sound of a master's voice, a familiar footstep in a driveway! * 5 *

"PEOPLE GO FOR AWARDS, medals and plaques. They don't know the joy to be found in a beefbone, a hunk of raw meat, a chance to chase a locomotive just for the fun of it or an opportunity to chase a squirrel up a tree. It bents Peabody Awards all to hollow.

My fellow guests here, Jackie Gleason, Perry Como and others, say there's no business like show business. They are nuts . . . they have never romped a sandlot full of kids? They have never chewed a slipper to bits or ripped the fringe off a Turkish rug.

My award is for a distinguished achievement on a screen. I think a distinguished achievement is hiding a bone out in the yard and knowing where to find it. How good are Comoand Gleason at this?

A distinguished achievement could consist of retrieving a stick for a moppet. I'd like to see Jackie under contract to do that. Not that I am a TV ingrate. I appreciate being here. Como and Gleason are good actors, TOO! They also knew hard scratching.

"I HAVE BEEN ASKED if I would advise other pooches to take up screen careers. Only if they place applause, publicity and prestige above things commonly associated with a dog's life. Believe me, it's tough going in show business and you have to work like a dog at it.

Yes, I have won fame and fortune as a canino, but every day I see some dog that I snvy deeply . . . a plain, ordinary, unknown mutt scampering around an open lot with another mutt and no agent yelling 'it ain't in the contract,' thank you!"
